1. Mission. Organizes, trains, and equips AF security forces (SF). Develops SF force protection doctrine, policies, plans, programs, resources to execute the missions for nuclear and nonnuclear security, air base defense, antiterrorism, combat arms, law enforcement, corrections, and DOD Executive Agent for military working dogs. Includes leadership/management of USAF Force Protection Battlelab and 820th Security Forces Group.

2. Command. The AFSFC commander:

- 2.1. Exercises command over assigned personnel and oversight of facilities, property, and funds.
- 2.2. Coordinates with other law enforcement and security agencies.
- 2.3. Works with Air Staff, MAJCOMs, DRUs, FOAs, and Joint Services on operational matters pertaining to implementation of HQ USAF/XOF programs.

3. Responsibilities:

- 3.1. Performs studies, tests, program reviews, and analyses to assess feasibility of new or modified programs and plans, or translation of policy into implementing guidance as required by HQ USAF/XOF.
- 3.2. Performs as field agent activity for HQ USAF/XOF providing in-depth research and analysis for directed/required policy development and oversight responsibilities.
- 3.3. Conducts on-site visits, gathers data, conducts analyses to verify conditions or problems, and identifies potential solutions.
- 3.4. Assists with program management oversight for areas identified in paragraph 1.
- 3.5. Conducts the USAF Defender Challenge competition.
- 3.6. Participates in field exercises.

- 3.7. Writes Air Force instructions, handbooks, manuals, and pamphlets.
- 3.8. Prepares, coordinates, and distributes crossfeed publications.
- 3.9. Researches concepts and technology to support new equipment requirements.
- 3.10. Coordinates user requirements for security forces and combat arms training software and oversees software development.
- 3.11. Collates and maintains data: crime statistics, metrics, and essential management information. Assists in analysis of data.
- 3.12. Provides command and management oversight of the AF Corrections Program.
- 3.13. Conducts functional area reviews of trained personnel requirements and training quality.
- 3.14. Coordinates deployment of security forces worldwide in support of operational requirements.
- 3.15. Provides management oversight to the DOD Military Working Dog Program. Provides guidance to service component program managers and the 341st Training Squadron (DOD Dog Center). Chairs the Joint Service Military Working Dog Committee. Provides DOD military working dog support to the Secret Service, Department of Defense, and other US government agencies.
- 3.16. Conducts multidiscipline vulnerability assessments of antiterrorism/force protection programs at military installations and sites.
- 3.17. AFSFC/CC exercises leadership/management of the USAF Force Protection Battlelab (USAF FPB) and 820th Security Forces Group (820 SFG).
  - 3.17.1. USAF Force Protection Battlelab (HQ AFSFC – USAF FPB). Identifies innovative concepts for protecting Air Force personnel, facilities, weapons systems; and rapidly measures their potential for advancing Air Force core competencies and joint warfighting using field ingenuity, modeling, simulation, and actual employment of exploratory capabilities in operational environments. Drives high payoff changes to force protection doctrine, organization, and training.
  - 3.17.2. 820th Security Forces Group (HQ AFSFC - 820 SFG). A multidisciplined headquarters of handpicked personnel. Responsible to the HQ USAF/XO through the AFSFC/CC to provide a fully integrated, highly trained, rapidly deployable, “first-in” force protection capability to any operating location worldwide. Operationally controls six force protection flights and one heavy weapons flight from five CONUS MAJCOMs, ANG, and AFRC forces.
